

Home Run for Trees

On January 20, 2010, the remaining 31 trees for the Home Run for Trees program for the 2009 season, which represented the home run hits by Astros in the months of August and September, were planted at Sylvan Rodriguez Park in Clear Lake. HLS had the pleasure of working with many volunteers from the Astros front office, Houston Astros players and announcers, Keep Houston Beautiful, Christison Landscape, Tree Town USA, Houston Parks and Recreation Department and NASA. A total of 80 trees were planted in parks around Houston for the 2009 season.

Astros players Geoff Blum, Roy Oswalt and newcomer Pedro Feliz were joined by Astros radio announcers Brett Dolan and Dave Raymond and NASA astronauts Charles Hobaugh and Mike Foreman. After the trees were planted, Mike Foreman presented Roy Oswalt with a jersey that was taken to space aboard shuttle Atlantis in November 2009.

HLS is proud to contribute to the Astros Play Green campaign and looks forward to the 2010 season.
